SCHOOL REPORT.

Fellow Citizens:—In accordance with the requirements of law, the School Board submit their annual report of the condition of the public schools for the year ending Mar. 1, 1892 :

No. 1.

The scholars in this district attended school in No. 4, as formerly. There have been scholars, three this year, living near Cheever, for whom we have paid tuition in Dorchester, as has been done for several years past.

No. 2.

Here were two terms of school. MISS ETHEL E. DUBIA taught the summer term and MISS LUCY M. HARDY the fall term ; both young teachers, who have had some experience in the school-room. Both labored well and faithfully and in discipline and methods of instruction there was little more to be desired or reasonably expected, and little to criticise.

The parents here showed commendable interest as heretofore by giving the board for one term.

No. 4.

The teacher for the fall was secured for the summer term, MISS ELLEN E. CONNOR, who entered upon her work with the same characteristic energy which she exhibited in her former labors in this school. She is thorough and accurate in methods of instruction, and good in discipline. Her labors have been the most satisfactory that it has been our privilege to report for some time.

The fall term was in charge of MISS MARGARET DONOVAN, a teacher of experience, and a thorough scholar, ready and correct in her instruction. But she was not so successful in the government of the school as was desirable, or even necessary, for the good and proper progress of the scholars. Had she fully comprehended the situation at first, and early resorted to such methods of discipline as were later found necessary, better results might have been attained.

We very much regret that several of the larger members of this school, who should have been in the school-room for the sole purpose of study, and who should have set examples which the younger pupils might properly imitate, did not apply themselves to their books as they should have done, nor heed the proper rules and requirements of the teacher.

A better state of things should exist in connection with this school. But how shall it be brought about? We tell you, parents, in all kindness, from our long experience as a teacher and with schools, that we believe the remedy lies very much with you. With the best of teachers parental discipline and hearty co-operation with teachers are essential to the attainment of the best results in the school-room.

If you will often visit the school, not for the purpose of obtaining some "rose colored report" to circulate, but to co-operate with and encourage the teacher, who often labors under many discouragements, and to see just how your children are conducting and what they are doing, far better results will be realized.

No. 5.

Here are four scholars for whom we paid tuition in Rumney, as heretofore.

No. 7.

This district is so far isolated from other communities that it has been found difficult to secure teachers for the school. It was only after repeated efforts that one could be obtained this year. Late in the autumn MR. FRED J. PEASE was engaged for a short term, necessarily closing upon the approach of the cold season. Here are some scholars who desire to learn, and made commendable progress under the instruction of Mr. Pease.

GEO. E. COLBURN.

No. 8.

Spring and fall terms were under the instruction of Miss LILIAN REMICK. This was her first attempt at teaching and being young I felt she would need the encouragement of both the School Board and the parents, but I am sorry to say she did not receive this from some of the parents. Notwithstanding I am happy to say that the order was excellent and the advancement made such as to command my approval. I think she possesses the qualifications that will with experience make her a first class teacher.

Some of the parents are not particular enough about sending their scholars to school regularly. Try and encourage the scholars in attending school every day. No scholar can make the best improvement in his or her studies that does not attend regularly. For any failure in this direction parents need blame no one but themselves.

No. 9.

Spring term under the instruction of Miss ALMA C. BLODGETT. She is too well known as a successful teacher to need any comments of mine.

Fall term taught by Mr. HERBERT E. FOLLANSBEE. This was Mr. Follansbee's first trial at teaching school and he taught a perfect school in every way. The order was good and the scholars made great improvement in their studies. He gained the good will of his scholars and with very few exceptions there was good attendance.

No. 10.

Spring and fall terms taught by Miss NETTIE FOLLANSBEE. This, with the exception of a private school, was her first attempt at teaching and she made a perfect success, and the examinations showed that the scholars had made great improvement in their studies. The order was all that could have been asked for, with the exception of one or two cases where parents were dissatisfied. In all other cases the parents worked with the teacher and one of the best schools in town was the result.

In making this, my first report, you will not expect to have such a report as you would have from a man that is qualified for the responsible position which your humble servant occupies. In entering upon the duties of my office I think I felt a sense of its importance and the responsibilities that would devolve upon me in the proper discharge of those duties. I believe no subject, except our salvation, is of such vital importance as the education of the rising generation, and it stands each and every person in hand, that has any thing to do with our schools, to see to it that they are of the highest order attainable. And I am of the opinion that the schools in this part of the town have been very commendable and of a high order. I am happy to say that I think there has been an increase of interest in the schools, which has been a great benefit. This I believe is the only way to elevate our common schools, that they may answer the ends for which they were established. To think that children will feel a deep interest in the subject of education while their parents are indifferent to the subject, is to suppose they are incited by higher motives than adults. I would say to the parents, that while your children attend school, much depends upon the interest you evince in their education. And much depends upon the kind of teachers we employ. They should be qualified not only in a literary point of view, but they should possess a tact for teaching. Another very necessary qualification in teachers is a regard for the morals and deportment of the scholars. Too much attention cannot be given to the morals of our scholars. And that teacher who neglects those duties is not qualified for the responsible position which he or she occupies.

In conclusion let me say there should be an awakening in the minds of the parents, a deeper interest in our schools. The interest in the minds of the children will be in proportion to the interest which you feel yourselves. This interest if felt must be manifested in some way. I would recommend frequent visits by parents and at the examination at the close of the school all who can should attend and let their scholars see that they take an interest in them. The coming year I hope every parent will take more interest than they ever have before, and by their interest make each school a success.

Your humble servant,

I. N. FORD.
